

The word on the street: BUILD THE 4-LINK BIKEPLAN!

The 4-link Bikeplan could form the backbone of a comprehensive cycling network for Sydney. These cycleways would be of a high-quality surface, separated from motor vehicle traffic by a physical barrier. The whole network shown here could be built for about $100 million, less than the cost of three freeway off-ramps.

This initiative has emerged from the passion and optimism of cyclists who live in Sydney. Once a threatened species, they are now proud and multiplying quickly.
